EXTRAS / BACKGROUND

Search party fishermen — MANUAL
30, plastic sheets, torches and lanterns

Kids on bicycles — MANUAL
6

Site crew — SUGGESTED

Station staff in 1999 uniform, mixed ages, some wearing the older style khaki with the metal buttons — MANUAL
Hero item, three identical duplicates plus one stunt version that must survive being dropped from the gantry twice before lunch. Continuity photographs are in the art-department folder; the props master keeps the master copy locked in the safe between takes and signs it in and out against the call sheet. Do not substitute the rubber version for any close-up. If the water-damage version is needed for the next day the 1st AD must be told before wrap so that the dressing is not reset overnight by the night crew.
